CIVIL DEFENSE ALERT PLANNED JAN. 14-18

A Civil Defense test alert is scheduled for sometime between 8:00 a. m. Monday, January 14 and 5:00 p. m. Friday, January 18 according to word today from the state C D office.

Assistant Director Charles Caldwell, Jr., said traffic will be stopped for ten minutes during the test and all citizens asked to take shelter.

All Civil Defense forces are asked to mobilize for a head count which will be reported through proper command channels to county and state offices, he said.

Caldwell said the exact time and date will not be given in advance because state officials want to make a realistic evaluation of the fallout system.

The test is also designed to familiarize the public with the signals.

There will be no evacuations during this test, Caldwell added. The public participation will take place only upon the Test Red Alert Signal—a three minute warning tone or short blast—which means "take cover" in both target and non-target areas.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

It is gratifying to notify you that we have almost 90% of our 1956 taxes collected as of Dec. 31; in view of the very late mailing out of our bills I feel that people of Bethel should be congratulated on this fine showing. No doubt we will receive quite a lot more before the accounts go to the printer late this month.

As expected the 1956 excise income was less than in 1955 due to the demand of many in November of 1955 who wished to retain their old numbers.

Our general accounts are in most cases very close to the appropriations. The heavy expenses last spring and almost steady demand for some plowing and sanding this fall forces our winter road account above our appropriation. I understand this is also true in at least several of our nearby towns and cities.

We are having a pleasant first meeting with Mr. Davis of the State Auditing Department who is making the annual audit of our records.

Thank you,
O. T. Roselle

A LOOK AT THE PAST YEAR IN REVIEW

The past twelve months in this area have seen the usual number of changes, most of which were recorded in the Citizen during the year. A review at this time may serve as a more or less complete reminder of events.

Several residences have been built and no listing is attempted at present. The new plants of Stowell Silk Spool Co. at Bryant Pond and Newton & Tebbets, Inc., at West Bethel are in operation. Block construction of both mills assure more permanent structures than the former buildings of these concerns who were burned out in 1955. The Stowell buildings (the old-time Dearborn mill) was destroyed in February 1955, and the Newton-Tebbetts plant burned in September 1955.

Notable construction in Bethel includes a new building, 36x40, at Bucky's Service Station; shops for the growing chain saw agency of Lloyd Lowell and the welding business of Edward Lowell; buildings to house the old town records and the dial equipment of the Van Tel. & Tel. Co. These are all of block type construction.

The new 60x60 foot garage and show room of Carter Farm Equipment at Mayville and a large two story addition at the Hanover Dowel Co. mill are also noted.

A newly designed debarker was installed at the Richard Davis sawmill in an adjoining structure. This followed installation in 1955 of a debarker by the Wilner Wood Products Co. at the local mill of Gratton Lumber Co. This first debarker supplies logs for the Gratton and Chadbourne mills. The barked slabs and edgings from the three Bethel mills are shipped and used at the Brown Company paper mill.

The mica mining and trimming operations of Wheeler Brothers (Roger W. and Chester Wheeler of Bethel and Albert S. Wheeler of Tacoma, Wash.) have expanded during the year. The mine on Pine Mountain in Gilead is operating through the winter and trimming is done in the room formerly occupied by Edward Lyon's store.

ALIENS MUST RETURN REPORTS THIS MONTH

Clifton C. Doughty, Acting District Director of the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service for the State of Maine, has announced that alien address report forms are available at all Immigration offices and local post offices in the State of Maine, for the convenience of the more than 18,000 aliens expected to report their addresses to the Government in compliance with the law.

Mr. Doughty pointed out that it is important for each non-citizen to report his address to the Government each January because of penalties, for non-compliance.

"A willful violation," he said, "can bring a fine of up to $200, a jail sentence and deportation. To avoid possibility of penalty, each alien should go to the nearest Immigration office or post office during January, obtain an address report form, and return the card to the clerk after completing it."

The Immigration officials stressed that no non-citizen should mail his own card.

The announcement followed a statement from Washington in which Immigration Commissioner J. M. Swing reminds aliens in the United States of the address report requirement.

In his statements, Commissioner Swing stated that the only non-citizens exempt from the address report requirement are persons in diplomatic status, foreign representatives in the United Nations, and Mexican contract laborers.

Any non-citizen outside the country during January is required to file the report within 10 days of his return.

INTERNAL REVENUE DEPT. CALLS TRUCK OPERATORS' ATTENTION TO "USE TAX"

District Director of Internal Revenue Whitney L. Wheeler today called the attention of truck operators to the fact that city streets, State roads, and all other public ways are considered to be public highways for purposes of the new Federal "use tax" which went into effect last July 1. Mr. Wheeler said that this tax applies to the use on the public highways in the United States of highway motor vehicles having a taxable gross weight of more than 26,000 pounds. Thus, he explained, the tax applies in the case of these vehicles even if they are operated solely within a city, town, or other metropolitan area.

The first return of this tax is due by January 31, 1957. The return should cover vehicles used in July, August, September, October, or November 1956. Form 2290 (Oct. 1956) is the return form to be used. Mr. Wheeler said that copies of the return may be obtained from his office.

The Week in Oxford County

Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Farnham of South Paris observed their 60th wedding anniversary Tuesday. They were married at Bryant Pond and have lived in Westbrook, Norway and Paris.

Reports from all sections of the county are showing temperatures below zero, hovering around the mark most of the day. A heavy snowfall of light snow was reported from several sections of the county over the weekend.

Wendell Foster on the main river road was damaged by the Sunday morning. An estimated damage of $4000 to the home and contents was reported.

A break was discovered at the Brick School, South Paris, Monday. Entrance was made through a window. Debris and files were lifted and cash taken. The Sheriff's department is investigating.

On account of uncertain delay in some equipment the opening of Stephens Memorial Hospital, Norway, is postponed for a few weeks.

It was recently announced that Arthur F. Lincoln of Bethel, and John L. Hartman, Jr., of East Rumford, were appointed assistant managers of the wood department of the Oxford Paper Company. Rumford reported 415 automobile accidents in 1956. There were no fatalities.

From The Ravenwood News, Ravenwood, W. Va.: If all the speeders on the highways today would take a long look at the cost of speed they just might change their ways. Or does a wild-eyed speeder ever change until he is perched on a slab in a mortuary or on a bed in a hospital?

Speed is the Number One Killer. It costs in death and property loss. It also costs so far as the operation of a motor vehicle is concerned.

Now this is not fantasy. Here are some facts.

At 60 miles an hour out on the open highway, a speed which is illegal in West Virginia, most automobiles use 20 per cent more gasoline than they do at 40 miles per hour. This wear is two and one half times as great and oil consumption is actually doubled.

These facts were given to us by the West Virginia State Police and they know whereof they speak.

Out in Kansas City a few years ago, some tests were made by the American Automobile Association. It was actually learned that you don't gain a bit of time by driving fast in cities, in congested traffic.

Cars traveled eight miles in congested traffic. Those going 25 miles an hour had only one stop for traffic light to every five stops.

made by cars going 35 miles per hour. The gas consumption on the slower cars was 23 per cent less. We could go on with real statistics and prove speed is expensive in the operation of your car but that's not the only high cost. Death, injury and destroyed property is expensive, too.

From the Herington Advertiser-Times, Herington, Kansas: We frequently hear people in public life advocate tax reduction on the one hand—and huge new government spending programs on the other hand.

Actually, both proposals could be undertaken—by such expedients as an extreme "soft money" policy and by turning loose the presses that print the currency.

If that should happen, what would the results be? Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey answered with these words: "This is the policy of deliberate inflation and must result in a return to a budget unbalanced by several billion dollars, with all of the inflationary pressures that it would create." Then we'd have more dollars in circulation, but each of them would become progressively less valuable—and if the program were carried to its logical end, would become worthless.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

"In our country political parties exist to elect governments, and government themselves govern," writes Chester Reynolds, Chief of the Office of Private Cooperation of the United States Information Agency, in Public Relations Journal. "In communist lands, governments are tools of the party. All their resources and facilities can be used to carry out party doctrine and decisions. This puts tremendous manpower and money in the hands of the dedicated few who rule the whole vast mechanism with absolute authority." And they are few indeed, comparatively speaking. "There are only 7,000,000 true believers in communism in the Soviet Union, but the other 193,000,000 have been so propagandized and terrified that they do not accept the community way of life.

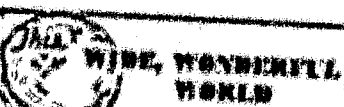

Mr. Reynolds' point is implicit in the title of his article: "The Soviet Propaganda Weapon: Danger at the Heart." This propaganda apparatus is as thoroughly organized as a modern army. The communist is at the very top. In the Central Committee of the party, it extends downward through every agency and activity of an all-powerful system—the diplomatic service, the various communist parties outside Russia, the Soviet press, the Soviet radio, the Soviet sports programs. The propaganda line is carefully tailored to fit each particular locale at which it is aimed.

The extent of Soviet propaganda is enormous. Mr. Reynolds summarizes a study of 1956 Soviet Orbit propaganda in communications media. At the end of that year, official communist broadcasting facilities were sent 1,673 hours per week of programs in all parts of the world. The Soviet press service, TASS, is the main source of news for a third of the world's population, and in 1956 it was responsible for a million words a day of communist-stained material. Russia not including satellite publications about a billion books a year. "And a book is hardly a book in Russia unless it contains some propaganda." In 1956, nearly 30 million of these books were printed in one or another Free World language, and the number constantly increases. Various Soviet periodicals are distributed widely throughout the world in many languages. Communist libraries exist in many of the world's cities. Soviet trade fairs and films serve important propaganda purposes.

Mr. Reynolds explains the significance of this in these words: "The real test in our contest with communism is now shaping up in the field of diplomacy. In rivalry in helping to solve the world's social problems, and in ideological persuasion. . . They are just as much part of the struggle as use of soldiers and ships and airplanes would be. The stakes are world control."

Mr. Reynolds believes that this communist menace can be met and conquered. In these words, "Truth is on our side. . . Freedom has extraordinary vitality in the breast of man." He then makes a specific suggestion which, while it was addressed to professional public relations people, certainly can be followed in some way and to some degree by a far greater number: "Think how much more you have to offer the world than the communists have. Consider what you can do to make known to other peoples the positive benefits of their looking to the American free-way of life, beliefs, and ideals for a proved road to social happiness. And act!"

YOU MAY know that a petrel is a small, sooty-black bird marked with white on wings and tail. But did you know that the name is derived from "petrelus," the Latin word for "petrel," the bird's name?

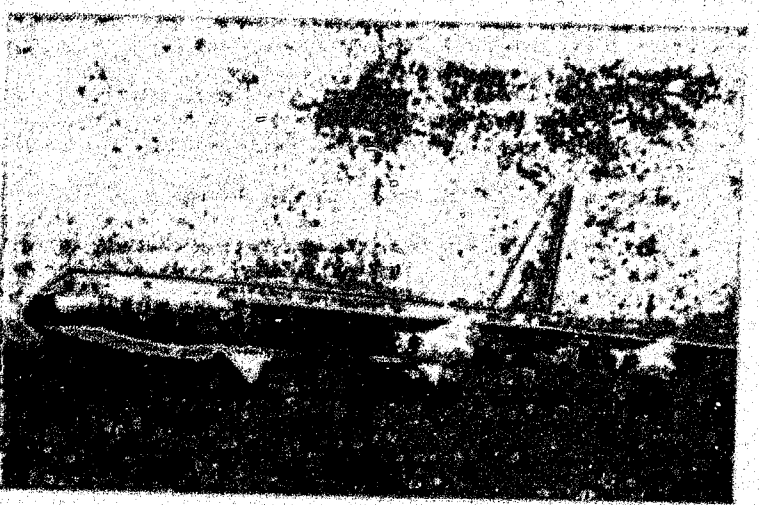

Carry's Chicken is derived from the word "Carry" (carry) which means to carry or to transport. The word "Carry" is derived from the Latin word "carri," which means to carry or to transport.

About 100 years ago, Paul Charles Murphy of New Orleans became the first — and only — American to win the world chess championship. He won it in 1891 and held it to 1893. At the age of 12 he was considered the champion of New Orleans.

Q—What is the "construction grants" program of the new Federal Water Pollution Act?
A—This phase of the Act provides for grants of $50 millions for the current fiscal year to assist municipalities in the construction of sewage treatment works needed for pollution control and water conservation.

Q—What was the last farm price parity ratio announced by the Agriculture Dept.?
A—On Sept. 15, 1956, the Department reported the parity ratio was 127%, down from 141% on the same date in 1955. Prices received by farmers were up almost one-half of 1%, but prices paid by farmers were up 3% over a year ago, the Department reported.

Q—Can you give a measurement for a peacetime economy?
A—One measurement might be the percentage of the total budget spent for military purposes. For instance, after World War I federal expenditures for the armed forces ran from 27% between 1921 and 1925 to a low of 15% between 1931 and 1935 and an average of 16% from 1936 to 1940. The ratio was up to 71% through 1941 and 1945. It was cut to 37% in 1947 and to 34% in 1950. It climbed to 47% with the Korean war in 1950 and reached 62% in 1952. After the Korean war it was cut to 36% in 1953; 34% in 1954 and an estimated 32% in 1957. The ratio of military expenditures totalling more than half the total federal budget likely is not regarded as a "peacetime" economy. It may be open to debate if we ever go back to a peacetime economy in the real sense.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, January 3

Read Galatians 5:1-16.

If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new. (II Corinthians 5:17.)

LAST spring I received a letter from a lady, a widow, who lives in a big city hundreds of miles from any relative. She works to support herself. Two years ago she underwent major surgery, followed by a long period of recovery. As a young woman, she had been a Christian, but later drifted away. Following her husband's death about four years ago, she turned back to God and the Church. She wrote in her letter: "We are having some wonderful lenten services at our Church, and I am enjoying them so much. I just love my little church. It is difficult for me to describe my feeling, but somehow I feel as if the church is a part of me and wonder how I lived without it. Life is now so different. No problem seems difficult any more. God is with me wherever I go. Loneliness is not bad any more. Illness and pain are easier to bear. I'm sure you understand."

Knowing Christ enables one to really live.

Prayer

Our Father, forgive us where in we have tried to live our own lives without Thee. Help us so to give ourselves to Thee that we may know Christ and the joy and victory which He alone can give. In His name we pray. Amen.

Conservation Farming In Oxford County

by Douglas L. Marston, Soil Conservation Service

Fred Judkins of Upton has a fine wildlife marsh that he developed on his farm last year. Fred had a large alder swale between his home and the main road which he had tried to get rid of. He had hoped to clear it and develop it for pasture. Drainage of the area was not practical so Fred decided to flood the area.

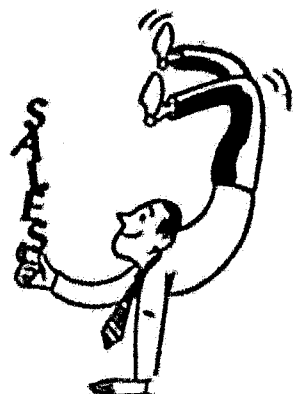

Fred and I made a survey of the area to see what was needed for a structure, and to be sure that there would be no damage to the road caused by the flooding.

A cement spillway was constructed on the end of his field road culvert and about six acres flooded.

The State Department of Inland Fisheries and Game helped Fred to blast pond holes and ditches through the marsh to make the area more productive. Ducks have been using the area and a large population of muskrats are now making their home in the marsh.

The once unsightly alder swale is now a productive area; producing the products for which it is best suited.

There are many such areas throughout the County that could easily be developed. The State Department of Inland Fisheries and Game is willing to help landowners, both financially and with technical information to develop land, or water areas for wildlife production. Landowners interested in wildlife area development should contact the Soil Conservation Service office in South Paris for further information.

TWO WISHING RINGS

By Allen Wishert

AS USUAL, Joe Harmon went to the post office that morning. While lingering the combination of his box, someone beside him was dialing their's. Drawing open the small door, he glanced at the hand operating the other. An object caught his gaze and startled him. It wasn't the woman's hand, although it was shapely and well-manicured; that caused the sudden emotion; it was the ring on her finger, a ring with a peculiar setting, a ring that had once belonged to his mother, one she had worn since a girl. Only once during life did she have it removed to lengthen the hand to prevent blinding.

The day she passed on, the doctor removed it and gave it to Joe. He had placed it on a shelf, then forgotten it. Afterwards, remembering where he had laid the ring, he reached for it. It wasn't there. No particular value was placed on the ring, only as a memento. Evidently it had been one of his mother's prized possessions. For her sake, he wished to place it with other trinkets she had left.

Today, seeing the ring, the very ring he had consumed months trying to locate, on the finger of another woman caused creepy sensations. He glanced up and was gazing into the eyes of a beautiful young lady.

"Excuse me, Miss," his voice was shaky. "That—that ring you're wearing?"

"It is an odd affair, isn't it," she turned her head, allowing a brighter light to rest upon the setting. "So many have commented on its bewitching setting."

"Where—where did you—you—?" Joe was still wavering.

"How—how did it come into your—your possession?"

"It belonged to mother," she replied.

"You mean, of course, your own mother?" Joe was fumbling badly.

"Or was it someone else's mother?"

A frightened look came into her eyes, she fell back a step. Perhaps she had better run, or maybe call for aid. Not only was his manner of speech perplexing; there was a queer light in his eyes.

"I know I sound like a man up a tree, or something," said Joe, making an effort to control himself. "Seeing that ring, my mother's ring on your finger, has thrown my mental facilities out of gear."

"Did I understand you to say, YOUR mother's ring?"

"You did. She had worn it constantly, up until the day she died."

"The—Then—" It came her turn to fumble. "You—you really are the man!"

"I am, I mean, am I? I mean, what man?"

"Didn't your mother ever mention the reason for wearing her ring?"

"Now that I think of it," Joe's mind traveled into the past. "Years ago, I was too young to give it second thought, she did mention something. I considered it fantastic, never thought of it again."

"I considered it exactly as you did when my mother mentioned it to me."

"Come," said Joe. "Let's step into the cafe next door over some coffee we'll try to unravel this ball of yarn."

Seated at a table, the extraordinary event was made intelligible. Their mothers, as children will, had purchased identical rings. Placing them on their fingers, each made a wish, it was, when they grew to womanhood and married, their children, if one should be a boy, the other a girl, were to marry. The mothers had become separated, losing track of each other. Now, Joe remembered that was the Mrs. his mother had conveyed to him years ago.

Six months later, Joe Harmon and Elsie Mayfield fulfilled the wishes with a double ring ceremony.

TELL US YOUR PROBLEM

AND LET US SHOW YOU THE BEST WAY TO SOLVE IT

BY JOHN and JANE STRICKLAND

DURING the Great Depression which was ushered in after the crash of 1929, Henry Dell Corey, of Bridgeport, Connecticut, lost his business, or rather it just slipped right out from under him leaving him with nothing to do but close the door. This business consisted of medicines, drugs, cosmetics, the usual stock sold in an American drugstore.

He was more fortunate than many who had a similar disaster, for he found a job right away—with a big company operating a chain of drugstores.

The company sent him into a neighborhood new to him. And there is where his problem arose. There were other proprietors in that section, and the proprietors of each and every one of them regarded him as an enemy, not merely a rival but an enemy. And not one took any pains to hide his enmity.

Came a meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce, Henry attended. Although he knew some of the other drug merchants, not one spoke to him, though they did greet each of their rivals pleasantly. He wasn't very happy when he went home that evening. Something had to be done about the situation. He narrated his experience to the "man higher up" to whom his reports were sent. When he did he made a suggestion. He had found that certain things were not sold in the other drugstores, nor in his, commodities which he believed were essentials in the home. He asked to be permitted to stock these goods. His Chief approved, gave him carte blanche to go ahead.

So he ordered anything and everything practical which he found the other stores were not carrying. Then he made an advertising display of the goods in his windows. For a long time he sold enough of these things hitherto unfamiliar to the neighborhood to carry the drugstore, the usual drug supplies becoming the cream of the business.

Gradually, the proprietors of the other stores began recognizing him. After all, he wasn't encroaching on their business too much. Too, if Henry were not there someone else would be.

Today, with the neighborhood population increased by some thirty per cent Henry's store is enjoying a splendid business, and Henry is enjoying his membership in the local Chamber of Commerce.

Maine 4-H's Visit Chicago

Warren Davenport

Pauline Small

Arthur Wilder

Three Maine 4-H Club members wound up a busy year by taking a trip to Chicago as delegates to the 1956 National 4-H Club Congress, Nov. 25-29. Superior results in 4-H Poultry, Canning, and Garden programs, resulted in their being selected for this distinction.

In a manner of speaking, Warren Davenport's hen laid the golden egg that turned into a week's expense-paid trip to the Club Congress. Living on a farm near Wayne, this 17 year old chucked up a remarkable record in the 4-H Poultry program. Sears-Roebuck Foundation is donor of his award trip.

Now in his eighth year of Club work, Warren completed seven years in poultry, raising a total of 510 hens, 100 White Rock capons and 1,225 chicks. He made 21 exhibits and gave two egg grading demonstrations. He received high score on his poultry management, eight blue ribbons, and a trip to the state fair on a judging team.

Four times president and junior leader of the Lucky Four Club he also assists his local 4-H leaders.

Pauline Small, 17, of Farmington won the much desired Chicago Congress trip awarded in the 4-H Canning program. Throughout her eight year 4-H career, Pauline has been keenly interested in practical things concerned with homemaking.

Recognized as an expert in canning home-grown foods, she has already to her credit more than 3,000 pints of fruits and vegetables.

With the highest score on vegetable judging in the county, he won a trip to Orono where, at the University of Maine, he placed second and won a trip to New Orleans. Arthur's 23,000 square feet of garden helped feed 35 children at his farm-camp home and provided produce for more than a thousand frozen food packages.

This is the 11th year that Allis Chalmers, Tractor Group, has provided awards which include his Congress trip.

These programs are conducted under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service.

Traffic tie-ups on winter streets and roads cause delays for many thousands of motorists each year, points out our Governor's Committee on Highway Safety. Many of these delays could be avoided if all drivers would make sure their cars are winter-protected. This means using the chains, when needed. Both motorists and pedestrians should be more alert to the traffic dangers that surround us during the snow/ice season. Driving or walking, help BACK THE ATTACK by being ALERT.

Walter Marcuse to Give Organ & Trumpet Recital at St. Luke's, Portland

Walter Marcuse, director of music at Gould Academy in Bethel, will give an organ and trumpet recital at St. Luke's Cathedral Church on Sunday, January 13 at 3 p. m. He will be assisted by Fred Spaulding Thorpe, organist and choirmaster of the Cathedral. Mr. Marcuse's musicianship is a product of both European and American training. He studied the piano in Berlin, Germany, and the trumpet at the Royal Conservatory in Florence, Italy, and organ and church music at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston. His studies there led to Bachelor and Masters degrees in music. His main organ teachers were George Faxon of Boston and Dr. Felix Hellmann of Berlin. Prior to World War II, Marcuse held positions with symphony orchestras in Houston, Texas, and Kansas City, Missouri, as trumpet player. After World War II, he was organist and choir master at the Nativity Congregational Church, and summer organist and director at Boston's historic Arlington Street Church.

Mr. Marcuse is a follower of the German School of Organ, however his program here will be varied. The trumpet selections will be by the 19th century composer Henry Purcell. The trumpet and organ sound most impressively in the cathedral, which provides the perfect setting for this majestic Elizabethan music. The program comprises also two selections by contemporary Boston composers. One by Herbert Fromm, director of music of Temple Israel in Boston, the other by Edward H. Hastings of Bethel and Boston, who dedicated his "Nail in Olden Style" to his uncle, Ernest M. Olden, who is the builder of St. Luke's organ. The public is cordially invited to attend. The Cathedral is located on State Street across from the Mercy Hospital in Portland.

Maine 4-H'ers Back From Chicago Trip

To be selected for the top state award in the 4-H Health program is not only an honor, but it distinguishes the individual as one who has developed exemplary personal health habits. This distinction goes to Jane Austin, 17, of Ellsworth, who has returned after a week's stay in Chicago at the National 4-H Club Congress. Her trip was provided by Eli Lilly and Co.

Jane wrote a health demonstration skit, "Your Health is What You Eat," and presented it several times—once on television. Last summer she assisted in preparing small children for polio shots, and plans to work in the winter clinics.

Through her 4-H health project she became interested in nursing, and enrolled in a practical Maria Hedstrom Jane Austin nurses course, Lloyd Norwood is her local 4-H leader.

Maria Hedstrom, 17, of Stockholm won top state honors over all other 4-H participants in the 1956 Dress Review. Her reward was a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress held recently in Chicago. Simplicity Pattern Co. is donor of this award.

Maria's costume, which she modeled in Chicago, was a sheath jumper in coral rose butcher rayon, with a three-quarter length box jacket of white print piques. The jumper is cut with a high neckline in front, and deep V in back. The skirt is straight, with easydraping pleats in back. She made the entire outfit under the guidance of her local 4-H leader, Mrs. Radcliff Holmquist.

The Extension Service of the University of Maine conducts these programs with the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture cooperating.

PUBLICITY BUREAU ISSUES NEW BOOKLET—MAINE FOR WINTER VACATIONERS

The State's newest promotional booklet, "Maine for Winter Vacationers" is now being distributed to wintertime vacation-seekers, according to the Maine Publicity Bureau, publishers of the new booklet.

This attractive winter book has a two-color cover and contains information on winter recreational areas around the State and general travel information with advertising pointing out places to stay, eat and shop that remain open year-round in Maine. It is made in the six inch size and has 36 pages of illustrations, advertising and information.

The book is being used to service inquiries received by the Bureau in answer in advertising placed by the State Department of Industry and Commerce in out-of-State newspapers and magazines inviting people to come to Maine this winter.

It is also distributed through the various offices of the Publicity Bureau located in Portland, Bangor, Augusta, Kittery and New York City.

According to the Bureau the annual income from winter recreational business amounts to over 75 millions for the New England States, and the intensified winter promotional program of the Publicity Bureau and the Department of Industry and Commerce should bring an even greater share of this winter business to Maine this year.

Copies of "Maine or Winter Vacationers" may be obtained from any of the Publicity Bureau Information Centers.

MARCH OF DIMES CAMPAIGN OPENS

Within a few days every one of Maine's approximately 300,000 families will receive a distinctive, gold-colored envelope from the March of Dimes campaign which opened this week and continues through January 31.

Upwards of 3,000 volunteers in just about every Maine town and city cooperated in getting these March of Dimes mailers ready for distribution by the post office.

These volunteers are asking you to remember the 80,000 polio victims for whom the Salk vaccine came too late. Rehabilitation of body and spirit are important if these people are to lead more nearly normal lives," said Donald Taverner of Orono, State March of Dimes chairman.

Each of the March of Dimes mailers contains a coin card with room for 20 dimes—from which the polio campaign derived its name.

March of Dimes mailers also are urged to contribute more if they care to do so. Last year Maine residents contributed approximately $75,000 in this fashion—almost 25 per cent of the total money raised.
